

SC lets off Bhushan with just ₹1 fine

Soon after the judgment, Bhushan tweeted his photograph holding a ₹1 coin. He also tweeted that "my lawyer and senior colleague Rajiv Dhavan contributed 1 Re immediately after the contempt judgement today which I gratefully accepted." He also held a press conference later in the day, saying he proposed "to submit to the order and respectfully pay the fine."

SC said. "We gave several opportunities and encouragement to (Bhushan) to express regret. He not only gave wide publicity to the second statement but also gave various interviews to press, thereby further attempting to bring down the reputation of this Court," the judges said.

Brand launches to spur ads in festive season

Last year, the combined effect of IPL, World Cup and general elections resulted in the festive season reeling in only 25% of the annual ad spend at about ₹20,000 crore. Media buyers are expecting companies to be liberal this time around and expect ad spends to clock around ₹20,000-25,000 crore worth of business during the months of October-December. As per a Madison Media study, ad spend in the second half of 2020 is expected to be about 6-13% higher than the second half of last year. The report says the total ad spend in 2020-2021 could be in the range of ₹55,000-58,000 crore.

However, this will not make up for the loss that the industry has suffered in the first two quarters of the year.

According to Ashish Bhasin, CEO, APAC and chairman, India, Dentsu Aegis Network, the advertising industry will register a decline of 15-20% in FY21.

From the Front Page

Industry analysts say that companies are waiting to advertise during the next four months after months of cutting down on ad spends. Right now, the advertising industry is said to be functioning at about 70% of last year's levels.

Consumer durables, smartphones and automotive companies are planning new launches ahead of the festive season. For instance, Panasonic is launching a new range of washing machines and refrigerators this festive season. Shirish Agarwal, head — marketing communications and brand, Panasonic India, says, "There was a latent demand for high-end consumer durables as we were confined to our homes, with limited or no domestic help. Therefore, we expect greater sales of high-end appliances such as 55-inch and larger TV models, 550-litre refrigerators, fully-automatic washing machines and grooming products this festive season."

Xiaomi launched an affordable smartphone, the Redmi 9, priced at ₹8,999 on August 27. Further the company will launch the Mi TV Horizon Edition in India on September 7. Given greater interest in owning a personal vehicle to avoid public transport, Kia Motors will introduce a compact SUV, Kia Sonet, in September.

Other than these categories, e-commerce brands, OTT streaming services, mobile gaming apps, and edtech brands, too, will advertise during the festive season. "Brands in categories that are active during the summer like air-conditioners, fans, colas etc will remain dormant," says Navin Khemka, CEO, MediaCom, South Asia.

"While we do not expect a quick 'V' shaped recovery, it will be a gradual growth with every month being better than the previous one. By Diwali, the industry will observe a greater degree of normalcy," says Bhasin.

The early trends are promising. "With Ganesh Chaturthi, we have seen a healthy demand and gradual normalcy with most advertisers willing to spend at pre-COVID levels," says Ashish Sehgal, chief growth officer, advertisement revenue, Zee Entertainment Enterprises.

According to industry executives, IPL will not hamper the revenue prospects of other national broadcasters. The entire industry will see an influx of advertising, not limited to IPL, as brands may wish to opt for less premium properties with which they can associate.

To woo advertisers, Zee will be launching new fiction and non-fiction shows during the festive season across several of its channels.

"We are also launching and re-launching channels with a brand campaign refresh amongst others," Sehgal said. Other broadcasters like Viacom 18 and Sony Pictures Networks are launching their flagship shows such as Bigg Boss and Kaun Banega Crorepati during the same period.
